Dear Mindy,

Thank you sincerely for sponsoring me to attend the JumpStart NEE in Boston this past weekend. This year marked my second year in a row to attend after being so inspired at last year's Kentucky conference that I returned to my district to ask to start teaching a stand-alone Personal Finance course at my high school. Thanks to your generosity I am bringing back tons of resources and renewed energy to keep advancing financial education →

Thank you for all of my students, as well as for our entire freshmen class through small lessons in advisory,

and I plan to share through regular posts on our FBIA, School Credit Union & whole school social media channels.

Thank you again for your sponsorship of my scholarship.
I am so very grateful!

Sincerely, Kelli S. Domarest

Esteemed AFDICA Board:

I am writing to express my sincere gratitude for Awarding me the Scholarship to Attend the JumpStart Conference for Educators. This opportunity meant so much to me as an educator committed to helping students build strong financial literacy skills.

The conference allowed me to deepen my knowledge, learn best practices, make invaluable connections with other educators, and bring back incredible resources and lessons to my classroom. Your support not only invests in my professional growth but also in the future success of the students I teach.

Thank you again for your generosity and for making this experience possible. I look forward to applying what I learned to empower my students to make informed financial decisions.

Warm regards,
Amanda Jansen

Dear Ms. Mindy!

Thank you so much for your generosity in sponsoring my scholarship and attendance at the Jumpstart Conference in Boston this November. It was a sincere honor and pleasure to meet you and to have the opportunity to discuss how I can use the resources gathered to help the students in my school.

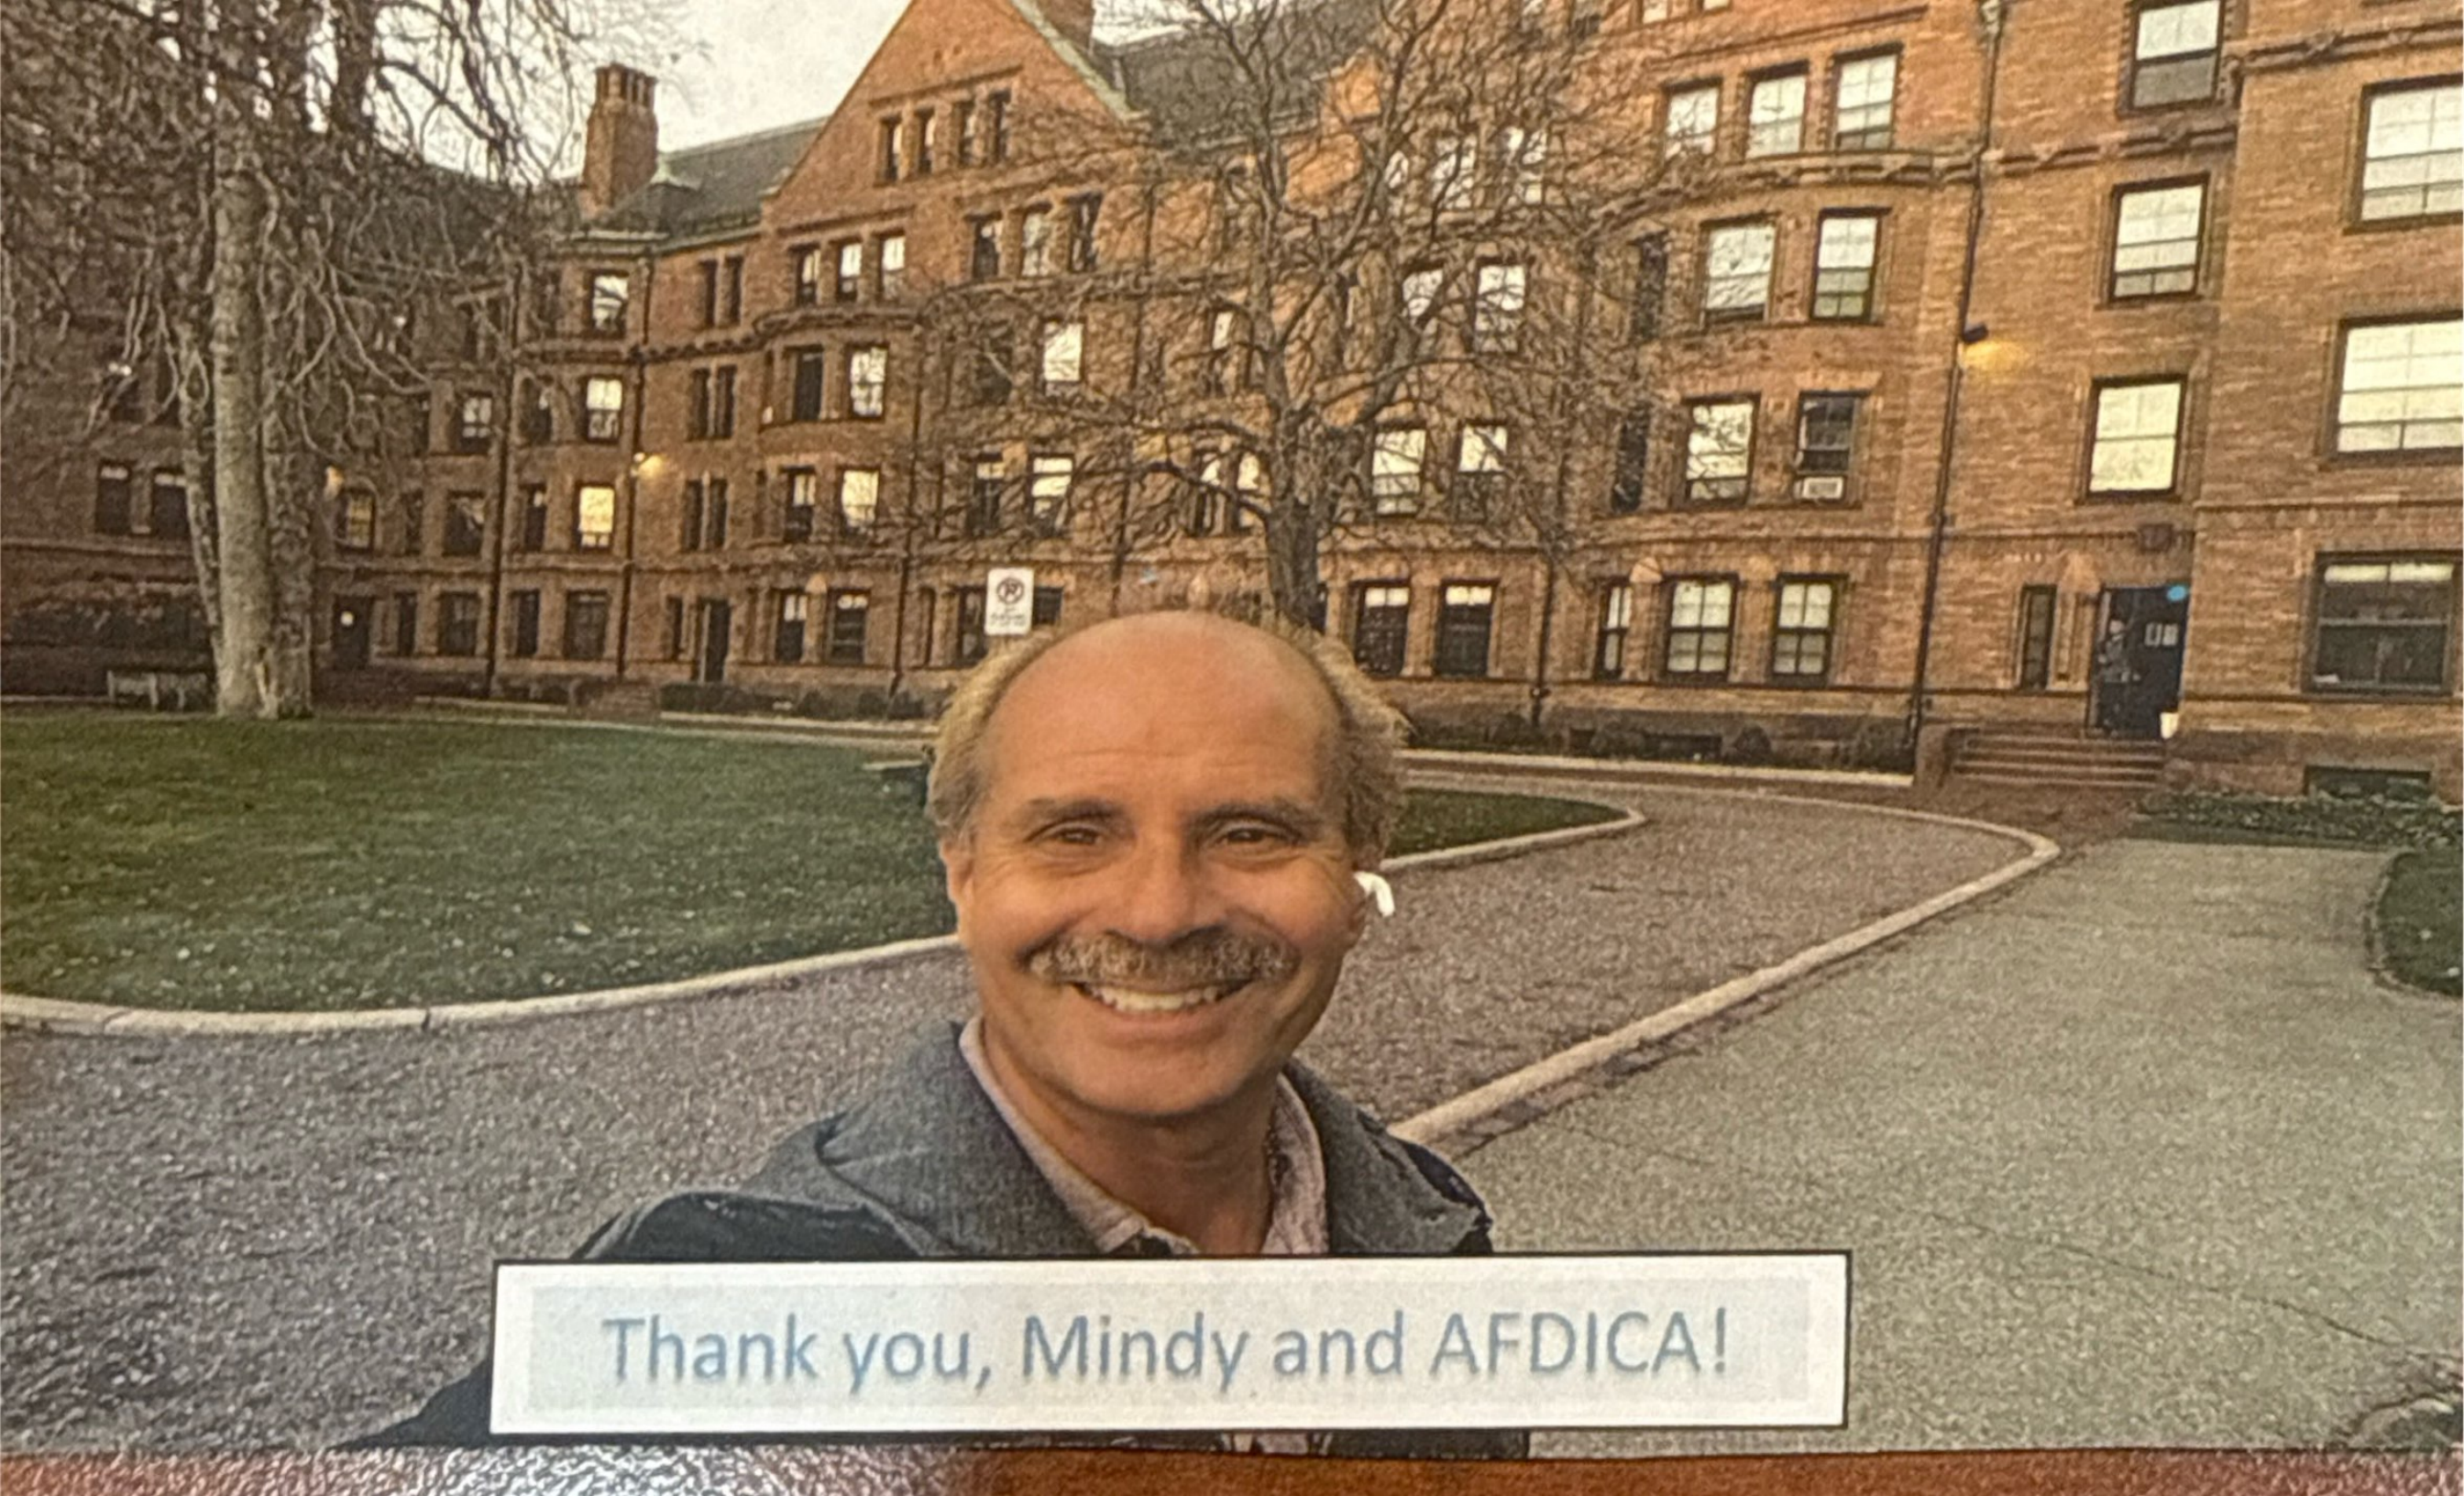

Sharing my knowledge with my colleagues will enhance the financial literacy and future of many students in Las Vegas. I hope you enjoyed your time at the conference and I look forward to seeing you again in Colorado in 2026! Thank you again, and thank you Adica, for your kindness and thoughtfulness in sponsoring my attendance to this amazing conference.

Sincerely, Phil Kerner

Thank you, Mindy and AFDICA!

Dear Ms. West,

I want to sincerely thank you for sponsoring my attendance at the JumpStart National Educators Conference. Your generosity made it possible for me to participate, learn from other educators, and bring back new ideas and resources to benefit my students.

The sessions I attended were extremely valuable, and I'm excited to apply what I have learned in my classroom and share it with my Personal Finance colleague.

I truly appreciate your support for teachers' professional growth and your commitment to education. The graduation requirement for Personal Finance begins next year in Pennsylvania, and my participation in this conference could not have happened at a better time.

Thank you again.

Alana Keller

First, I want to apologize for the delay in sending my note of appreciation. I am the only instructor in my county, which leads me to staying quite busy. The chaos of the holidays amplified that since I do not operate on a K-12 schedule.

Words cannot express how truly appreciative I am to receive the scholarship to attend Jump$tart NEC. It was incredibly generous and allowed to participate in an experience I would have never otherwise had access to.

Since the conference, I've been in touch with several vendors and have actively been working on ways to bring resources to my rural community and the adult students that I serve. Again, this wouldn't have been possible without you. Thank you!
